A FAST Agn .- On Saturday, the 26th ult. in the evening, Senstor Trumbull left Washington for Brooklyn, to visit Mrs. Lovejoy, and was back in his eeat to make a speech on Monday morning. The Commercial contrasts with the following: When Congress began its sessions in Philadelphia, Senator Strong, of Massachusetis, used to leave Northampton on horseback, escorted by a number of friends at Springfield, twenty miles, where the party would regale themselves, Mr. Strong pursning his journey "solltary and alone," and his escort returning to their homes. After five days' riding on horseback he would reach Philadelphia, thus making the jonrnoy in six days-a distance not greatly exceeding that rom New York to Washington-and this was

In these paved or bowldered couches huze fires were built. The wood consumed, the coals and oed the shivering soldlers disposed themselves

HUNTSVILLE, THE VALLEY, AND THE PROPER'S To return to the subject of which I intondl to speak, there nover wes so wealthy and ndependent a people, so reduced and render d so helpless by war, in so short a time. The buildings on the embence, once occupied by the gnests, are very small and incommodious. Here, I am told the elite of Southern society held many hrilliant soirce, whiling the hours away in th mazy dance, or rambling through the grove surrounding. Night came on, and presently the light of camp fires marked the destinancemp. We brought the mail for the company on duty here. If friends at home could have eren that night how anxiously the addiers crowded around to enquire for news from them they would be in the future more industrious correspondents. To console those who received no missive, the hoys who were more fortunate passed theirs to the others, and so the news and gossip from home was made common property.

VETERANS FEW. Cept. Jessep, who commands the post, is lucharge of the business of re-enlisting troops from tha 5th. they will willingly serve again.

Headquarters of this detachment are established at the former residence of Mr. Stellge, one of the wealthiest planters in Northern Alabams. He owns three or four plants tions. The one referred to contains over cighteen hundred acres of land, all of which was nader cultivation. The negro women and children are s'ill on the place. They subsist now on rations issued by the Commissary. How they will manage to find food when the troops are withdrawn is a mystery to me. THE CITIZENS WANT HORSES.

ITIt is not often the Germans attempt a pun, which is singular, seeing the richness of the language, and that there is a good dash of love of fun in their composition. [From the N. Y. Times ] ASTOUNDING REVELATIONS. THE REDELLION DRAWING SUPPLIES FROM THE NORTH AND WEST.

It was rumored some few weeks since that the rebel General E. Kirby Smith had been negotiating with parties in the United States, with the consivence of the Davis establish-ment at Richmond, for the exchange of cotessaries, but it was not generally believed Fishin a few days, however, the question he een settled by the coming to light of certain coments, which we append helow, ich are beyond a doubt authentic. first is from Seddon, Rebel Secretary of War CONFECERTS STATES OF AMERICA, WAR DEPARTMENT, RICHMOND, VA., March 12, 1863. General E. K. Smith, Commanding, &2.: application has been made to me, sustained y several of the members of Congress from State, by which provisions and supplies for the army of Louisiana and Arkansas my bo-obtained from the United States, in exchange for cotton. It is represented very trongly by the members that the sniplies for subsistence, especially of meat, has, hy the presence of the army in Arkansas and Louisir a, heen so exreesing want to the people.

The gentleman offering to make the contract is vouched for as reliable, loval, and of adequate means, having peculier faciliies from his position as a farmer-planter on the river, end his past con-actions and business to accomplish success-nly the ends proposed. It is, of conrse, not desirable to resort to such a trade with the United States, which, under the laws of Congress, when carried on by citizens is illicit, on the grounds of penalties; but, when necessities have compelled, the Government has on many occasions resorted to it to a greater or less extent; end my ewn judgmen? much prefers the resort to such trade rather than to allow our armies to suffer, or the people to be pinched by the withdrawal of their necessary applies for the support of the urmies. I have ot, however, felt myself sufficiently advised of your circumstances or the necessities of your ermies to determine on the propriety of such contracts, and therefore I have preferred referring Mr. Chichester to you, and to your discretion and better knowledge the making of such engagements.

If the wants of your armies require it even for the incidental relief of the people from serious pressure, I have no heritation in both nuthorizing and navising the course. The terms and conditione I must lenve likewise to your judgment. Provisions should be obtained very low from the Northwestern States. very low from the Northwestern States, and cotton when stut forward must pay very largely. Still the risk is very seriou, and parties engaging will of course have to be tempted with the prospect of large remuneranvenient localities, I have endeavored eithe to make the contracts on the hasis of the prices before the war of hoth articles of bartor, or to have four pounds of meat for three of cotton. These are the exchange at the cost prices of each article; it may very probably be accured by you and would be estisactory if better hy you and would be estisfactory if better prices eannot be agreed upon. I have always, too, bad it stipulated positively that the cotton should not be delivered except in payment and after the provisions were received.

That there should be no liberty of huying the cotton, but the cotton should be obtained and forwarded by our own officers. That the cotton should not be sent to prove the spine of the spi cotton should not be sent to nor be shippe afterward at Rew Orleans, and if the stipula tion could be obtained that the cotton, though pessed to the Ucited States, should, passing through it, be shipped abroad. All of them, except the last, should, I think, be reisted on. The party making the contract aill need protection, and perhaps an armed secort to protect his provisious from guerillas, and other transportation to your army. This will be reasonable, and will, of course, be given. He is likewise anxious that his mo-

SUPPLYING THE REBELS .- The developments made hy the New York Times, the trnth o which seems justified by documents, are of the most astounding character. There have heen floating rumors during this entire spring that the leading men of the rehal Coufedsracy were anxious to exchange cotton for Federal currency, and the motive was said to he a desire to obtain the requisite funds to accomplish their expatriation, through Mexico, to other climes; and thass rumors have now assumed a documentary phase which merits attention. It is true that incantations of the weird sisters in Macheth, Lot exactly "a deed without a name," which is void in law, but a contract with only one proposition made by Mr. John T. Chichester, of Arkansas, to the rehel magnates at Richmond develops a plan to feed the Confederate armies hy exchanging cotton in the loyal States for provisions, or, in other words, to depose King Cotton, cut up his estate, divide ont the pieces, and harter them for hread and heef. Who Chichester is — whather he helongs to the British line of Pelbam and the Earldom "of that ilk, or is an attache to the episcopal palace of Chichester, or some other foreign emissarywe are not informed, but he tells the Richmond starvelings, that he is the Joseph, who can save them from famine, fill their granaries and their drove-yards, and he hoasts that he has special facilities for effecting these things within the Union lines. The only importance to he particularly attached to this is, if Chichester is not a myth, has he come in nnder the amnesty, taken the oath, obtained Federal protection and set np a wholesale provision, forwarding, and commission establishment, under the Treasury regulations, to restrict trade with the insurrectionary dis tricts? The points which are developed seen to he that the rebel General Kirhy Smith is his Mississippi Department has negotiated with parties in the loyal States, with full knowledge and consent of the Jeff Davis government, to exchange the non-convertible staple for food, clothing, munitions of war, or whatever the most pressing nseds of thorehels may requirs. The confederate War Secretary, Seddon, one of his quartermasters, and Mr. enpervision of the whole transaction.

Wo cannot tall, and perhaps we shall never know, the whole-truth of this husiness, as FINE CLOTHING, in these indian transactions, the moccasin tracks are usually very carefully covered conccal the trail, but Seddon's letter clearly states that this alleged now contract is not the first of the kind into which the rehels have entered, and the Union traffickers have been so anxious to trads that the Secretary has seen proper to fix his conditions, and dsmand that the contracts should be hased "on the prices before the war," or to "have four pounds of meat for three of cotton;" nay, he has even been more exacting, and, as if suspecting that the man who would sell heef t own heeves could be swung hy the tail, he has "always stipulated positively that the cotton should not be delivered except in paymen and after the provisions were recoived." It will he observed, that, howsver practicable the Chichester plan may have been at one time, it is now impossible to carry it ont, for our complete occupation of the valley of the Mississippi has precluded all chance of sending provisions secretly to the rehsls. This transaction was originated, it would appear, heiere the rehels had ahandoned the idea of reoccupying New Orleans, for it was expressly stipulated that the exchanged cotton should not be consigned to ner reshipped from that city.

With our present means of information our speculations must nscessarily be very vague upon the genuineness of these documents We publish them in full as curiosities of the war; they include Secretary Seddon's order and the authorized agreement hatween the rebel Quartermaster and Mr. Chichester, the latter heing drawn with all the care of an accomplished scrivener, providing for the subsistence of a large army, and pledging the Chichester heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns to the faithful and honest carrying out of the act of supreme rascality. It may he that in investigating this case our Government may heat the hush without starting any game, but that offers no reason against an effort to procure a thorough and searching inquiry into its truth or falsity. If it is practicable, or even possible, for agreements to he made in the front of our armies by which the rehels can be fed and clothed; if while our soldiers are fighting to put down the rehellion there are any agents of our Government who have such unlimited powers, or such unguarded facilities, that they can trade and traffic with the enemy; or if civilians have at any time been able with impunity to purchase cotton of the rehels, giving necessaries of life in barter, it seems to us that there should be an active movement in the hemp market, and that the miscreants who have been thus engaged should manifest an upward tendency.

It is stated, we know not whether on good anthority, that Gen. Grant isn't pleased with the Army of the Potomac's luxurious style of living. We hope that ho will require that army to live as the army of the Cumberland does. We guess that officers and soldiers fight hetter npon mere necessaries than npon luxuries. But, if any feel that they must have luxuries, let them remember that the greatest of all luxuries to the patriotic warrior is vic-

Reader, if you could have looked in upon Gen. Grant at dinner in his tent whilst he commanded the army hefore Vicksburg, you would have heheld him enjoying his pork and beans and glass of cold water. And then, if you had whisked through the air to the banks of the Rappahannock or Rapid Ann and peeped into the Headquarters of a Colonel or Major or Captain, you might have seen the occupant feasting upon rosst heef or turkey and drinking his Madeira or champagne.

A man, said to he crazy, mads his way the other day into the Prosident's presence and entered upon a vehement haranguo, insisting that he himself has a right to the Presidential chair. Hs was handed over to the police. Now we move, in hehalf of the country, that the fellow, whether crazy or not, have a fair and full hearing. The Boston Post says that Senator Gratz Brown has taken the wind out of the sails of

The Opera. - The "liquid notes mellifluously sweet' of Goanod's Faust fall more deiciously upon the ear by repetition, and the more we are enabled to forget Goethe's poem the more we can enjoy the lyric drama. The whole second act is a succession of gems, the various chornsses are blended and untwined so dexterously, and such marvellous combinations are effected, that pleasure and woader equally predominate by turns. The hold and striking contrasts between the wail of Msrgaret's grief and the Cathedral masic show that the author felt every coafidence in his own genins, while the grand military choruses are noble and showy. We canno but regret the taste which briags the chosking red and blue pyrotechnics into use, for thay add nothing to the effect of the music or the situations. So too the apotheosis of Margaret, with scantily draped lay figures as attendant angels, ascending on stage "slosts" with moveable horizons, has not any of the deep, impressive, and religious effect which the simple we should try the sams experiment with Ed- dianapolis. John Smith, alias John Louden, melody of the finnle would impart. Suppose gardo, in Lucia, after he has, swan-like, faded of company K, 4th Kentucky cavalry, was in music, to his "bella inamorata," what would be thought of it? Gounod's Fanst, in its musical loveliness, needs not the foreign aid of "stage carpentry," nor the villainous smell of strontian and hlue blazes.

This evening we are to have Doaizetti's Lucretia Borgia, one of the most popular opcrss we have had performed in this country. It is said that its original representation would have been a complete failure but for tho pleasing effect of the Brindisi, which re- attractive place of amusement was largely deemed it, though afterwards the opera be- attended last night, and the novel and intercame, and still continues, a great favorite in | esting performances elicited the admiration of Italy. It is full of delicious melodies; noth- every beholder. Many of the acts bear eviing can be more finely flowing than tho swell | dence of great superiority, and are produced of the opening chorus, "Bella Venszia," while | with taste and elegance. Melville's equestho arias, "Com 'a bello" and "Di pescatore," | trianism is an established success. The graceand the brilliant finale to the first act; the ful gymnastic performances of the Conrad Duke's "Mai per codesti insani," tho chorns of | Brothers are very acceptable. The entire enthe guards, "Nou far motto," the scena between | tertainment is full of agreeable features, and the Duke and Lucretia, "Soli noi siamo," with its alternate threats and pleadings; the very is amusements. The Circus remains here this dramatic trio "Gnai se ti sfugge un motto," week, giving afternoon and night performanthe sparkling drinking song, 'Il segreto per | ces at 2 and 7 P. M. esser felici," and when it is not omitted, as it is THE CIRCUS.—Some time will elapse before too frequently, the wailing grief and despair the amusement-loving public will have the of Lucretia's "Era desso il figlio mio," are all in Donizetti's most inspired style. Abaut one week ago, the stenmer U. S. Grant left the Louisville wharf freighted with a cargo for Memphis and the Mississippi river. She passed through the canal, and Capt. Lockhart, keeper of the locks, ia collecting the toll, received from the clock of the boat a one hundred dollar Treasary note. The next day the bill was found to be a base counterfeit. The Captain reported the fact to Col. Vaughan, who immediately telegraphed to the Provost Marshal of Cairo to stop the boat on passing that point, and, if the clerk could not satisfactorily explain how he came in possession of the bill, to place him under arrest and return him, under guard, to this city. Col. Vanghan received n reply to his despatch yesterday afternooa. The clerk denied having any knowledgo of the basoness of the bill when he passed it on Capt. Lockhart. Ho says that a few hours before the boat left Louisville, two men came aboard and engaged passage for Cairo, handing him the one hundred dollar bill, from which he deducted the price of passage, and returned to them the proper change. The men then went ashore, saying that they would send their baggage aboard in a few minutes. The boat left at the advertised honr, but nothing more was seen of the two individuals, who, withont doubt, were solely engaged in putting the connterfeits into oxteasive circulation. The clerk of the Grant, when informed of the note being counterfeit, promptly handed over the amount in genuine bills to be refuaded to Capt. Lockhert. The authorities exonerate him from all blamo.

THE EIGHTIETH OHIO INFANTAY.—This regiment, which was organized at Canal Dover, and took the field under Col. E. H. Mr. Powell proposed to insert at the end of section one the following: That no slave shall be emancipated by this article unless the owner be first pald the value of the slave or slaves so emancipated. Rejected—year 5, Mr. Davis submitted an amendment providing for the distribution of negroes (not free) under this act among Northern States, coording to their respective population. Mr. Saulsbury obtnined the floor, when the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE. Wr. Arnold, from the Committee on Roads aud Canals, reported a bill, which he explain-ed to be amcadatory of the Post Route Act of July, 1862, and providing for the construc-tion of a bridge over the Ohio river, to caable the railroads of Indiana and Illinois to meet there, on the banks of the Ohio in Kon-tucky, and for the benefit of navigation, by recting the bridge to be built from 265 to 10 feet high. The railroads are ready to instruct the bridge, without cost to the Govfroment, at the Falls of the () his.

Mr. Msllory, of Kentucky, in adverting to he bill, said: If it had been passed two years go, millions of dollars would have been aved to the Government in the transportahe great military as well as commercial imortance of securing the connection.

Mr. Morehead, of Penasylvania, moved to ly the bill on the table, which was negatived 4 majority. Mr. Washburn said the bill involved great onstitutional principles. There were amend-tents to it, which were referred for consideracon to the Cammittee of the Whole. He was opposed to bridging asvigable streams; his own country had suffered too much sltogether from the bridge at Rock Island. The motion was disagreed to, and the bill as recommitted to the Committee on anads

Mr. Holman offered a resolution direction e Committee on Military Affairs to report e bill increasing the pay of privates. Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, said the committee ave prepared such a bill, but withheld what amount will be raised from the new Mr. Schenck moved to refer the resolution o the Committee on Military Affairs. Agreed The Hoase refused to give the naval committee ten days leave to visit the West to inspect sites for a navy-yard.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the national bank bill.

The committee agreed to the amendmont ffered yesterday, by a vote of 59 to 51, that olling in this act shall be construed to prebit the taxing of banking capital. State and municipal purposes, provided the taxes shall not be higher than the rate im The daring Anstralian Horsoman, will appear at each exhibition in his Transplendent Sensition Equestrium Acts. Among the other talented momitages by States on the same amount of moneys Mr. Procks submitted three additional sec-ions, two of which, he said, came from all the banks in New York, with perhaps a single exception.

The first nmendment provides that the coin ceived by every association shall be retained up to a certain extent, The second delignates the ways and means for winding up the associations when they

The third forbids that these hanks be turnd iato saving institutions. These amendments were severally rejected. Mr. Holman offered a substitute for the bill ar. from an offered a substitute for the bill repealing the national hank account, now in existence, and giving the institution three years in which to close. Disagrood to.

The committee here rose and reported the bill as amended to the House.

Mr. Stevens offered an amendment similar to the bill as amended of the interest of soven er ceat, and admitting the State taxation

Stevens acceded to the suggestion of Mr. Brooks that the amendment made to the bill by the Committee of the Whole ou the state of the Union shall be printed before further action is taken on the subject. The Armania adjourned.

the Potomac, accompanied by Gen. cridan formerly of the Army of the Cumrland, but now ordered to the command of he cavalty in the Army of the Potomac.

The Navagoe Indians of New Mexico havng surrendered to the United States forces, the proper suthorities have asked Coagres for an eppropriation of $10,000, with whic to procure them agricultural implements and subsistence until they can support themselves ar the reservation set apart for their colonization. The Navagoes have been at war tor two centuries and the peaceful plan now proposed is deemed more economical than the large war expenditures heretofore incurred in New Mexico. They number 7,000.

tectives "shadowed" the suspected house-how they hired rooms where they could over-arc my prisoner." The guerilla at once gave lets" on. He confessed to have been at the sacking of Plattsburg, but devices the other crimes imputed to him.

His nother still lives in that region. His poybood was passed in the society of the border ruffians who, in 1854, 55, and '53, made such cruel raids on the free State setlers of Kansas. He says he was persuaded to enter the rebel service. By his daring and Hart's gucrillas. He is known to have boast-Plattsburg, and to have nurdered Lieutenant Gruffenstein, of the 25th Missouri. He was in the gang that assnssinated a blind octogenorian, R Riggs, besides sacking his house and those of G. W. Roberts, E. Ralph, and R. Allen. Nor is there wanting a chain of proofs to show that he was at the fieudish sacking of Lawrence, by the massacre of 125 men, women, and children, in cold blood. Quantril's real name is Charles Hart, a brother of Jo. Hart. Others of Jo. Hart's gang were in that massacre, some of whom were subsequently killed, while Abraham Colcleasure, who is now a prisoner in St. Joseph, boasted that he had "helped gut Law-

GENERAL PEMBERTON.—Gen. Pemberton's official report of the siege of Vicksburg is published. He attributes all the rebel disasters at that place to his deficiency of cavalry.

It appears, however, that Gen. Graut's strategy completely deceived Pemberton, for from the 15th to the 30th of April he seems to have had so little information of Grant's novements us to have been unable to meet them. On the 29th of April he telegraphed Gen. Johnston that the Federal forces were at Hard Times, and "can cross to Bruinsburg;" and, ou the 1st of May, that "a furious battle has been going on all day below Port Gib-aon." On the 2d of May Gen. Johnston re-rooms have recently been brought to light, between the Via Abundantim and the Via Augusti, not far from the Forum. In one of them a great many pieces of bread wrapped up in napkins have been found, most of the napkins being still in a good atate of preservation. Among the other articles found there is a beautiful little scal, with the syllables and we engraved upon it. M. Electrical streets in the second of the secon bles and mo engraved upon it. M. ton Journal relates the following incldent: with the New York Ssnitary Fair called upon Mrs. August Belmont and requested her to hold a concert, for the bencht of the fair, among ber friends. She took it nnder advisement and consented to do so, and made visement and consented to do so, and made arrangements accordingly. She found her house would accommodate about three hundred guests. She issued her tickets for that number, at $5 a ticket. She was shortly visited by the same committee, who informed host that the price of tickets was the state of the same committee, who informed host that the price of tickets was the same committee, who informed the same committee, who informed host that the price of tickets was the same committee, who is same as a should keep his even and save and save as a same as a should keep his even and save as a sav her that the price of tickets must not exceed $2 each. They were informed that Mrs. Belmont's friends would as soon give five or tive. ten dollars as two—that the house was small, the expense would be the same, and the recipts to the fair very much diminished. But the lady manngers were persistent—two dol-lars and no more must be the extent, or they would have nothing to do with the concert. Mrs. Belmont, who has much of the spirit of her heroic father, informed the ladios that she was quite competent to manage her own affairs, in her own house, and that they might consider themselves as discharged from all further duty in regard to her concert. Her husband, on hearing this state of things, handed his wife $1,500 in greenbacks, took all her tickets and carried them down town, sold some and gave the rest away to his friends, and made ample provision to have the concert a success. It came off—the rooms were brilliant and crowded-the beauty and fashion and wealth of New York were there,

CAPTURE OF A NOTED GUERILLA. The St Joseph Tribune, of the 29th, gives particulars of the capture, &c., of Louis Vandevere, one of Quantil's and Hart's men, and one of the worst of the scoundrels who so long have devastated Northwest Missouri. He arrived at St. Joseph Sunday evening, in custody of Major Abraham Allen, of Ray county, late of he M. S. M, and who was mustered out last fall to make room for Paw-paws. On the 21st, Detective Jas. A. Pickett, of the Provost Marshal's office at St. Joseph, accompanied by Major Allen, arrested Vandevere at St. Paul, Minnesota, on a charge of having committed several robberies and murders in Ray, Clinton, Clay, and Caldwell counties, Mo., while connected with Jo. Hart's guerillas. Major Allen, says the St. Paul Press, has been ou his truck since December, in Illinois and Missouri, and, learning he was in Wa-bashaw, notified Gov. Gamble, who informed bashaw, notified Gov. Gamble, who informed the Provost Marshal General, and he the Provost of St. Joseph, who at once detailed Pickett to make the arrest. Major Allen and the ctt to make the arrest. Major Allen and the Missing Wandevere and his wife through to Quincy, Chicago, Milwaukce, La-Crosse, Read's Landing, Wabashaw. Arriv-ing at St. Paul March 15, they produced rook the premises—how, under the guise of peddlers, &c., they tried to gain admittance to the house. All this time Vandevere was lying in the Whicher flouse, scarcely showing himself to any one. In fact, so shady wild be keep that store time the effects be did he keep that at one time the officers began to think the bird had flown.

They "spotted" a female from the house where he had boarded, and to which they had at first tracked him—to the stage office, where she engaged a seat. They engaged seats also. At 7 A. M. the stage called at their boarding house, and they took their scats. It called at the next honse, and the lady got in. The next stoppage was at the Whicher House. Some one got in, and the porter brought out a valise and placed it in the stage. He spoke to the lady within, and as be did so, Major Allen caught his eye. It

The stage rolled on, hut the officers got out at the Merchants' and were soon at the whicher House. They requested Mr. Barney to "call the porter, as they wanted to speak to him." Louis made his appearance. Major Allen identified him. Mr. Pickett by tween Fourth and Fifth.
